The classic "Bachelor of Arts in History - No Concentration" is preferred by many History majors for its flexibility. However, it is possible to pursue a concentration within the major: Digital History, Public History, Global History, U.S. History, or an Individualized Concentration. The A.A. Liberal Arts Pathway for History will put you in the position to pursue any one of these concentrations. Please consult your Success Coach or Mason Advisor for guidance on the concentration that fits your interests and goals.
