

GET INVOLVED!

Foodways Curators

Help collect, catalog, label, and research objects and artifacts as they are acquired.

Foodways Digital Culture Team

Help to upload photos, text, and work on basic design elements of a Web site.

Foodways Anthropology Team

Work with family and community to conduct interviews and oral histories, collect recipes, and record their own experiences working the food industry.

NOVA

Northern Virginia Community College

GET INVOLVED!

NOVA FOODWAYS

Global Culture, Third Spaces
& Community

What are “Foodways”?

Foodways connect culture and identity through the way people produce, prepare, and consume food. Food culture includes agriculture, history, geography, economics, science, health, anthropology, and other disciplines.

What is NOVA Foodways?

NOVA Foodways: Global Culture, Third Spaces, and Community is a series of upcoming events on the Alexandria campus that will explore the cultural diversity of foodways on our campus and throughout the greater Alexandria community with an exhibit, talks and lectures, a website, art, films, and food tastings.

What is a “third space”?

College campuses are “third spaces,” that is, places where two or more distinct cultures blend. Think about our classrooms and workspaces where race, ethnicity, language, geography, immigration status, age, ability, languages, and other aspects of identity are represented. Everyone brings an aspect of identity to the table, so to speak.

When is this happening?

Join us in Spring 2022 as we begin with a series of talks. In October 2022, we will invite the community into a gallery space to follow a narrative of cuisine, cooking practices, and production across cultures.

We Promise

In our celebration of food and culture, we cannot ignore those in need of support. At every NOVA Foodways event, we will acknowledge this need and give audiences an opportunity to contribute to services that seek to eliminate hunger.

Contact the Alexandria DEI Committee

Susan Monroe

Smonroe@nvcc.edu

Laura Garcia-Moreyra

Lgarciamoreyra1@nvcc.edu

NOVA FOODWAYS is made possible through a NOVA Innovations Grant from the NOVA Foundation.